WEDNESDAY EVENING, MARCH 31.

LACK OF CALIFORNIA FONG BIRDS.—What a dearth of singing birds there is in California. To welcome the spring time, whose genial warmth we have been experiencing for the past week, there have only been the robin, who belongs to the high Sierras in summer, and the blackbird, who holds out here all winter, and with liquid notes is the first to greet the spring. In the East a great army of warblers precedes the sun as he moves north from the equator, for over there is an uninterrupted stretch of country, affording them food in the migration from the Gulf States to Labrador; but with us, as we fancy, the desert beyond Los Angeles and San Diego prove to be almost insurmountable barriers. At all events, the absence of songsters from this State is very notable. —Monterey Democrat.

EAT ONIONS.—We once knew a poor unfortunate who was the prey of everyone. Poor people borrowed money from him, rich ones ran over him, book agents elung to him, insurance agents followed him from morning till night. He commenced eating onions. Now no one goes near him.
